

Sidebar for chat history alongside a main area for chatting and reading is common

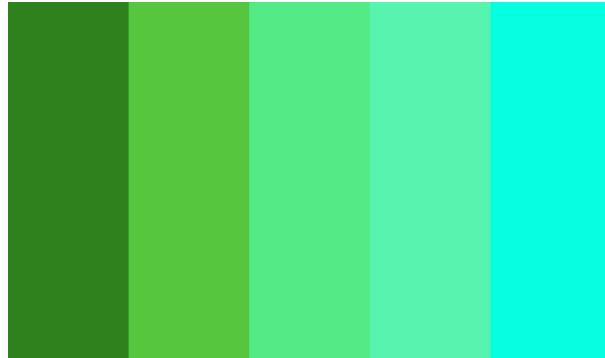

Tends to be no common font for these kind of interfaces, just something simple and easy to read, perhaps integrated with a markdown viewer for legibility

It is common to have a greeting before beginning the chat. This can be where we allow the users to choose their specifications.

Colors for similar interfaces tend to be boring and functional, leaves a lot to the imagination. Background can simply be white or black.

My personal two favorite colors are green and blue, and they can combine amazingly into this color palette, representing the inspiration for the colors I've chosen.

A screenshot of a Reddit poll from the subreddit r/Synesthesia. The poll asks "What color is history (school subject)?". It has six options with their respective bar lengths and votes:

Color	Votes
Red	43
Orange	80
Yellow	79
Green	37
Blue	38
Other (comment :)	79

History does not necessarily have one agreed upon color, leaves the door open for personal preference